In Head Start classroom #4, during these 1^{sts}. Six Weeks, we are focusing on learning about routines getting to know each other and learning to express our feelings. Why is important to learn about routine? Well, children are most successful when their days are organized into a predictable series of routines. By creating these familiar routines for your child to follow each day, you provide him with a sense of comfort and security because at any given moment, he knows what he is supposed to be doing and what will happen next.

For the month of September we are talking about "Clothes" and "Shoes". We are getting into the routine of what we do in the classroom. The children will be working on fall arts and crafts. Please make sure your child is dressed appropriately for the weather and is wearing appropriate shoes for school. We are excited for the new school year and all that comes.

. Learning the order of the activities will help your child feel comfortable with beginning new learning routines at school and it can be followed at home as well. This plan includes activities that introduce and review your daily and weekly schedules and related concepts, including, your new weekly and daily routines, and how your child can manage routines independently.

Looking forward for a great year,
