From Your Family Advocate

Hi Parents!

This month I would like to share with you some financial tips!

Hope they can help you!

Emergency Cash Options from Banks

If you find that you must borrow money, beware of alternative financial services providers that may promise quick cash. Payday loans or car title loans come at a steep price and can trap you in debt.

Many banks offer reasonably priced, small loans that enable you to borrow money and repay the money (plus interest) later.

- ♦ Talk to financial institutes in your community to see what options they may offer.
- ♦ One example is a line of credit, which you can use to borrow money for a short period of time.
- ♦ It is best to work with your bank to set up this type of account in advance instead of waiting until you are in a rush for cash.
- ♦ As with any other line of credit, you will be told the APR (annual percentage rate) in advance of signing a formal agreement.
- ♦ Be cautious of using fee-based overdraft programs to deliberately overdraw your account if you need cash quickly. The costs can quickly add up depending on the number of transactions covered.

To learn more, read the interagency brochure Protecting Yourself from Overdraft and Bounced-Check Fees, available online at:

www.federalreserve.gov/pubs/bounce/default.htm.

Remember the Parent Meeting on the 3rd Friday of each month, Feb 17th at 9:30am.

See you soon!

From the Desk of Dr. Marcy Gud-demi, Child Development Specialist

Did you know that research shows when a child enters Kindergarten, there is a 30 Million Word Gap between children from more affluent homes and children from lower income homes? Children from lower income families heard about 616 words per hour, while those from working class families heard around 1,251 words per hour, and those from professional families heard roughly 2,153 words per hour. This Gap makes a profound difference in future school success.

Children need to be in a language rich environment and hear and use language. That is how they learn words and concepts. One technique to use at home and in the classroom is called Parallel Talk. This is simply narrating what you are doing for your child. "Today for breakfast we are having Cheerio's. First I need to get the bowl and spoon. I open the drawer to find the spoon. I am pouring the cereal into your bowl and now I am pouring the milk on top. I am going to sit down now so we can talk about what is going to happen today..." "Let's clean up. We are putting all the toys in the bucket for now; so that later, we can find them and play with them. One, two, three dolls; one, two, three trucks; etc, into the bucket we go." "Let's go for a walk. First we have to put on our coats. Let's button up; one, two, three, big round buttons. Now, Mommy is putting on her sweatshirt but I have a zipper and I have a hood. It is different from yours." It is so easy to just talk while you are doing things.

The study also pointed out that lower income children did not receive as much praise. Let your child know when he/she has done a good job. "I like the way you helped me set the table. Thank you so much!" "Good job on brushing your teeth. Now you have chased the bacteria away!" "I love you! You are the best son in the world."

Since Valentine's Day is coming up soon, fall in love with words and talk, talk, talk!
